William B. Cobb was born June 30, 1828 in Brewster, Massachusetts to Barnabas and Matilda (Lincoln) Cobb. He was descended from Mayflower Passengers William Brewster, Stephen Hopkins, and George Soule.

Starting out on the sea at 14 years old on the Ship Aeratus, he appears to have taken quite well to the sea as he continued to serve on several clipper ships before the Civil War. He also seems to have become quite a skilled sailor as he ended up becoming the Chief Officer of several ships. While serving as a Captain and Chief Officer he sailed around Cape Horn 14 times. On September 11, 1862, he was commissioned an Acting Ensign in the Navy. On December 23, 1863, Cobb was promoted to Acting Master.

Unfortunately, he appears to have gotten quite ill in the service as he was medically discharged on October 28, 1864. While in the Navy he served on the USS Alabama and the USS Malvern. Both ships he served on were Steamers and were apart of the North Atlantic Squadron. The ships he was serving on were enforcing the blockade of southern ports during the Civil War. After the end of the Civil War he appears to have travelled out to San Francisco, California where in 1867 he entered the employ of the Pacific Mail Steamship

Service as Chief Officer of the steamers "China" and "Golden Age." The Steamer "China" travelled between San Francisco and Hong Kong via Yokohama. The Steamer "Golden Age" ran between Yokohama and Shanghai through the Inland Islands. In April of 1877 Cobb took command of the ship "City of New York", that ran between San Francisco and Sydney, Australia. In March of 1879, it appears that his wife, Mercy, did go on a voyage with him to Sydney aboard the "City of New York". On May 6, 1886, William B. Cobb was elected to the California Commandery as a Companion of the First Class being Insignia No. 4761 and he was also assigned Commandery Membership No. 612. At the time of his election, he was living in the Palace Hotel in San Francisco. In December of 1890, he and his wife moved into the Hotel Pleasanton.

Unfortunately, William B. Cobb died at 4 o'clock in the morning on October 9, 1894 at his residence, 517 Mason Street in San Francisco. The funeral took place at his residence the following Thursday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. In addition to MOLLUS, Companion Cobb was also a member of the George H. Thomas Post #2 of the Grand Army of the Republic in San Francisco.

Commander-in-Chief's Message

I am pleased to report that the Mid-Winter meeting in DC was a great success. Much was accomplished, and our hosts, the DC Commandery under the direction of Commander Pollock did an outstanding job at making sure that everything ran smoothly. The ceremonies at the Lincoln Memorial were as impressive as always. As Commander-in-Chief, I felt especially proud to stand before all the members of our proud organization, knowing that we are carrying on a tradition that began on the first day of the Monument's dedication in 1922.

Remembering "MOLLUS" In Your Will

After you provide for your family and other matters, would you consider including a memorial gift in you will to our hallowed Order? Your gift to the Loyal Legion Memorial Fund, which is tax deductible, would be used to support the preservation of battlefields, monuments and programs that serve to memorialize the Civil War. In this way you would be perpetuating the memory of your Civil War ancestors and fellow companions.

Special Reception and Tour of the New Collections

Vault at The Sir John

Templeton Heritage

Center of The Union

League of Philadelphia

On February 5, the Sir John Templeton Center hosted a special reception and tour of the museum quality, high-density storage vault which now holds the archives, manuscripts and Civil War books of the Un-ion League, the Civil War Museum of Philadelphia and the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States (MOLLUS). The Dr. Russell P. Heur exhibition space is home to the permanent exhibit, Love of Country Leads, and the temporary exhibits:

Philadelphia 1862: A City at War; and Philadelphia 1863: Turning the Tide. The Heritage Center celebrates the rich history, heritage and traditions of The "League" which was founded to suppress the rebellion of the American Civil War and to preserve the Union. During the Civil War and post-war reconstruction, the League was one of the most influential organizations of the North, Since its founding in 1862, the Union League has been a leading civic leader in the his-tory of our country and the City of Philadelphia.

The Heritage Center was created so this history can be shared, and so that the League’s charitable activities can become more effective. The Center came about following a successful fundraising campaign led by former League President Frank Giordano generating nearly $10 million for the construction of the Center; the endowment of the three League Foundations—Youth Work, Scholarship and Abraham Lincoln; and the opening of the Center in May 2011, and most recently, the new col-lections vault. The John Templeton Foundation serves as a philanthropic catalyst for discoveries relating to the Big Questions of human purpose and ultimate reality.

New York Commandery

The New York Commandery conducted regular business meetings in November and December 2013 during the holiday season, meeting at the Squadron “A” Club in midtown Manhattan.

To ring in 2014 in January members, potential applicants and guests held a cordial dinner at a midtown Manhattan restaurant to discuss planning and events for the coming year.

Also in January, members of the Commandery recently spent a ‘field day’ moving the library and archives of the New York Commandery to a new location out of storage where Commandery records and archives can be sorted and potentially digitized and utilized by Companions and the general public in appropriate venues. More information on the New York Commandery archives will be forthcoming.

Web News: The New York Commandery is in the process of finalizing their website. Our site should be going ‘live’ in the coming weeks and we look forward to having a more robust online presence in the future.

Massachusetts Commandery

Visit Gen. George Gordon at the 2014 MOLLUS Congress in Massachusetts Companions attending the 2014 MOLLUS National Congress (hosted by the Massachusetts Commandery) will have the opportunity to tour, with a docent in period costume, the Framingham History Center, which is housed in a restored Victorian Gothic-style memorial dedicated in 1873 to Civil War soldiers from the town.

Most prominent among them was Brig. Gen. (BVT MG) George H. Gordon, who organized the 2nd Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry regiment, “acknowledged to be one of the best-trained and best-disciplined units of the Union Army,” according to Framingham Town Historian Frederick Wallace (Framingham’s Civil War Hero: The Life of General George H. Gordon). Indeed, Gen. Joseph Hooker said the unit had “no superior,” and elements of Gordon’s approach served as models for the Union Army in the early days of the conflict. Gordon trained Col. Robert Gould Shaw, who led the Massachusetts 54th, the first northern regiment made up of free African Americans. Among the many pieces of Civil War memorabilia, nicely displayed, in the Center, are Gordon’s service coat, his saddle (a McClellan model), and the gilded eagle he took from the executive mansion in Richmond at the end of the war. The Congress convenes October 3, 4, 5, 2014. For information, contact R. E. Schecter at 508-820-7789, bartscriv@verizon.net), and visit <http://www.massmollus.org/index.html>

Abraham Lincoln and the Technology of War

Lincoln Memorial University's (LMU) Abraham Lincoln Library and Museum (ALLM) has been invited to display "Abraham Lincoln and the Technology of War" at the Ford's Theatre Center for Education and Leadership (514 Tenth Street NW) in Washington, D.C. Curated by Steven Wilson, ALLM curator and assistant director, the exhibit investigates the significance of inventions and new machines in the Civil War.

The Civil War began as a struggle of righteousness between two groups of, for the most part, amateur soldiers. It ended with the realization that weapon superiority equals or transcends tactics and death is the ultimate victor on the battlefield.

Abraham Lincoln viewed technology as a means to defeat the enemy. Possessed of a brilliant analytical mind, the President knew that the North's industry – far superior to the agrarian South – was a key to victory. Lincoln was also fascinated by machines of all kinds, and understood the potential of technology. Each new weapon might hold the power to shorten the war and save the Union.

Included in the exhibit are artifacts from the B&O Railroad Museum, the Kentucky Military History Museum, the National Firearms Museum, the Center for Northern Indiana History, the Tennessee State Museum and the Vicksburg National Military Park-U.S.S. Cairo. Some rare items from the collection of the ALLM are a Greene bolt action breech-loading rifle, Captain John Worden's speaking trumpet and a collection of carte de visite photographs.

"Abraham Lincoln and the Technology of War" opened to the public January 14, 2014, and will remain on display through July 6, 2014. The exhibition is open 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. daily. Admission is included with regular daytime visit tickets to Ford's Theatre, which is free but requires timed entry tickets.

Tickets may be reserved in person at Ford's Theatre Box Office (511 Tenth Street NW, Washington, DC), through Ticketmaster at 800.982.2787 or online at <http://www.fords.org>. Ticketmaster fees apply. Groups of 15 or more may reserve tickets by calling 202.638.2367. The University hosted a special reception at Ford's Theatre on February 10, 2014, when LMU officials were in the capital region for festivities surrounding Lincoln's birthday. MOLLUS & DOLLUS members were invited to attend this private grand opening reception, and enjoyed an evening of previewing the exhibit while partaking of a wide variety of h'ordeuvres with wine and champagne.

The new Ford's Theatre Center for Education and Leadership features a winding staircase and 34-foot tower of books about Abraham Lincoln, symbolizing that the last word about this great man will never be written. The books in the tower were made from fireproof bent aluminum. Our exhibit designers printed the cover art directly onto the metal book "jackets." The tower features 205 real titles, most of which are currently in print. To get permission, more than 50 publishers were contacted. The titles repeat throughout the tower, and the tower totals approximately 6,800 books. At three stories high, the tower represents just a fraction of the 15,000 titles written about Lincoln.

When selecting books, the designers focused primarily on Lincoln himself—books solely focused on events of the Civil War or Mary Todd Lincoln were less likely to be considered. The majority of the titles are histories and biographies about Lincoln; the designers also included several children's books, books of Lincoln's speeches, quotations or quips, and one or two travel titles.

The design for the tower was completed in late 2010, so only books published before 2011 were included. The designers were able to incorporate many books published within the last five years, including Harold Holzer's latest book The Living Lincoln, James Swanson's Manhunt and Doris Kearns Goodwin's Team of Rivals. Construction of the book tower took two weeks, and the designers glued each book in place by hand.

Boston monument (sculpted by Augustus St. Gaudens) to Col. Robert Gould Shaw and the African-American 54th Mass Volunteer Infantry.

Although far to the north of the battlefields, Massachusetts is rich in Civil War history. MOLLUS Companions from across the country will come together in October 2014 in the historic town of Framingham—a half-hour west of Boston—the home of Gen. George Gordon, who created a “model” regiment for others to emulate, and commanded troops in numerous battles, including Antietam. Framingham is also the location of Plymouth Church, where the “Battle Hymn of the Republic” was first sung in public, and Harmony Grove, where William Lloyd Garrison burned the Constitution during a fiery Abolitionist speech.

The three-day program includes visits to the Framingham History Center, which displays beautifully preserved artifacts of the war within a restored 1872 Civil War memorial building; a bus tour of Civil War related locations, including the monument to the first all African-American regiment (the 54th MA, subject of the film Glory) at the Bullfinch-designed state capitol; Faneuil Hall, where Daniel Webster gave his great speech on “Liberty and Union”; and a dinner at the nearby Wayside Inn, celebrated in Longfellow’s famous “Tales of the Wayside Inn” (and restored thanks to Henry Ford).

MA MOLLUS looks forward to welcoming you to the 2014 Congress.
